HANLON SEES HIGH

Old Oriole Manager Visits Jennings in Hospital.

JIM CORBETT ALSO CALLS

Foxy Ned Talks About Boston Nationals' Franchise, But Has No News.

SCRANTON, Pa., December 7.—Ned Hanlon of Baltimore is sharing the lime-light here with his old Oriole lad, Hugh Jennings, the Detroit manager, who is laid up at the State Hospital as the result of an automobile accident last Friday night. Hanlon came on especially to see just how hard Hughie got hit and to do him some good, if he could.

He couldn't get to the bedside Tuesday night, because Jennings had turned in when the train arrived, but bright and early yesterday morning, accompanied by James J. Corbett, who is playing a vaudeville engagement here, Hanlon got to Jennings' hospital room, and regulations to the contrary notwithstanding.

Hanlon found his former player in fine shape, although his features are scarcely recognizable from the bumps and bruises and cuts he brought out of the creek when the automobile fell on him.

Jennings' injuries consist of a badly crushed left foot, contused left thigh, closed fracture of both bones in the lower third of the left forearm, cuts and bruises about the face and head and concussion of the brain. He is comparatively free from pain.

Corbett paid his respects and withdrew, and then the base ball men got down to a real chat.

Couldn't Hurt That Head.

"I knew you could not hurt that head," said the Baltimorean, upon leaving the hospital. "Amos Rusie failed to dent it with an inshout in the old days, and I saw that concrete coast of the Italian swimming tank into which Hugh dove from a height of fifteen feet, and I knew when I read that the head got the worst of it that there was nothing to it."

Hanlon went on to pay his respects to Jennings, telling how anxious the people of Baltimore are that the "Tigers" get through all right, drifting off into stories of the old days in which the mighty Hugh figured. His mind off Jennings, Hanlon went into personal affairs.

The following dispatch from Baltimore was read to Hanlon:

"Ned Hanlon declares that he is a bidder at this time for the Boston National League franchise, but will not say he is not contemplating purchase. George T. Houley, who is now here, says he wants Hanlon to get it."

Another message from Boston, carrying a statement from William Beverly Winslow, acting attorney for the Boston club since the death of William Heppner Russell, was also shown to Mr. Hanlon. The latter statement was as follows:

"If Edward Hanlon of Baltimore has made an offer, it has been through an agent, as we have not heard directly from him."

"Both reports," said Mr. Hanlon, "bear out my claim that as each year checks itself off I am declared to be in on a deal to get control of the Boston Rustlers."

Not a Good Proposition.

"The Boston National League franchise is not a very good proposition. In the first place there is a heavy mortgage on the grounds, and in the second place the location and dimensions are such that it would be extremely hard to make a success of it."

The message from Boston declares further that a purchaser of the Boston club must assume a two-hundred-thousand-dollar mortgage on the South End grounds which is held by the former owners, Soden, Billings and Conant. It will require at least $50,000 more to build up a winning team, and if the accommodations for the public are to be increased another large outlay will be necessary.

"Edward Hanlon, who tried to buy the club from Russell several months ago, was said to have offered $150,000 for the stock."

Mr. Hanlon's comment was: "Both the right and left field fences measure a few feet more than 300 feet from the home plate. I measured it myself and know. The grounds are hard to get to and the accommodations are bad after you get there. Suppose you succeed in building up a winning team—what then? If you are fortunate enough to draw crowds, what are you going to do with them? The man who cannot go to the park until the last minute does not feel like standing up all throughout the game."

Mr. Hanlon admits that he tried to buy the Boston American League franchise, but that President Ban Johnson, with his out "because he was a National League."

Mr. Hanlon terms this "rot." "Of course," said Mr. Hanlon, "I don't blame Johnson for preferring to let Jimmy McAleer in on the Boston proposition. At the time the American League was formed McAleer went over to Johnson's side and took a lot of good players with him. Naturally Johnson wants to look out for his friends first. If he had told me he wanted to do the right thing by McAleer that answer would have been satisfactory to me, but to say that he is a 'National League' makes me sick. If I had my money tied up in the American League you can bet I would be for the American League body, heart and soul."

Takes Up for Hughie. Incidentally Hanlon took occasion to roast both President Johnson and President Frank Farrell of the New York Americans for announcing that Hugh Jennings was not the desirable party for the leadership of the Yankees, because he was a "National League."

Since that statement was credited to him, Mr. Farrell has come out with a denial, saying that, first of all, Jennings was a good manager, regardless of where he connected his sentiments.

Hanlon says he will never again manage a club. Although he was mentioned as a possible successor to McAleer's manager of the Washington club, Hanlon said he wouldn't have taken up the work for a neat sum of money.

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN FOR BAD STOMACHS.

Indigestion, Sourness, Gas, Heartburn or Dyspepsia Easily Relieved in Five Minutes.

Take your sour, out-of-order stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 30-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Poisoning—food poisoning. The Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become afflicted with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness or many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is lacking and nothing helps you or you belch gas, or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapepsin.

To Disperse Wrinkles in a Half Minute

(From Feminine World.)

Many women in making their toilet for the theater, dance or any social affair, bathe the face and hands in an astringent lotion having an immediate rejuvenating effect. An ounce of powdered anaxilite dissolved in a half pint of which hasel makes an ideal preparation for this purpose. It is wonderfully effective in promptly dispersing wrinkles and creases, as well as bagginess of cheeks or chin. Enlarged pores are reduced, the skin appears softer and finer-textured, and one seems to have suddenly lost several years from her age.

The results being so remarkable and coming so quickly, and the ingredients being obtainable at any drug store, this is a good formula to remember. The solution is entirely harmless.

HOME OF THE CRISWELLS IS LOOTED OF JEWELS

Thief Entered Through a Cellar Window While Family Was Away.

The family of F. M. Criswell, 1729 Euclid street, had a visitor yesterday afternoon who left no cards. Neither did he enter by the front door. He chose a cellar window, and the family misses several hundred dollars' worth of jewelry because of the visitor's careful work of the premises.

For the first time in many a day the Criswell family had left the house entirely vacant. Mrs. Criswell went down town half an hour before noon yesterday to meet her husband, who conducts a drug store at 1001 7th street northwest. She and her husband stayed away from home all the afternoon and evening and did not return to Euclid street until 11 o'clock last night.

Whole House Ransacked.

It took but a glance to see that some one had been around during the twelve hours of absence. Bureau drawers had been pulled out, their contents dumped on the floor and thrown about in scandalous fashion. The visitor had not overlooked any chances for loot. He had even tossed the bed clothing about in his search for hidden treasure. The stuff he took consisted of jewelry, at least three hundred dollars' worth.

He had made his way into the house by the back gate, which opened onto an unlighted alley. He smashed a window in the cellar. The door leading into the house from the cellar had been locked with two bolts, but a chop of a hatchet settled them. After that the task of looting the place was easy. The police believe that some one familiar with the movements of the members of the family did the job.

BALANCE FOR AEROPLANES.

Patent Issued for New Device in Aeronautics.

A new device in aeronautics has been patented and the United States patent office has issued a certificate to the Aerial Equipment Association for certain aeronautic devices. The claims of the new patent are said to be somewhat similar to the balancing device used by Glenn Curtiss, which is in litigation with the Wright brothers. The association to which the patent was issued yesterday is composed of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, J. H. McCurdy, W. Baldwin and Glenn Curtiss. Lieut. Thomas Selfridge, who died as the result of an accident to an aeroplane at Fort Myer, was a member of the association.

DRY DOCKS LACKING HERE.

Chief of Bureau of Docks and Yards Says United States Is Behind.

Civil Engineer H. C. Hollyday, chief of the bureau of yards and docks of the Navy Department, in his annual report says that even after the completion of the new dry docks at New York, Puget Sound and Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, the United States will be far behind other great naval powers in docking facilities. He explains that the single British dock yard at Portsmouth has more dry docks than all the navy yards of the United States, and that Germany and France also have better facilities. This in face of the fact that the coast line of the United States on the Atlantic alone is greater than the total coast line of all the other three countries mentioned.

SAILOR IS COMMENDED.

Secretary of Navy Personally Lauds Bravery of C. J. Mulligan.

The Secretary of the Navy has personally commended Christopher J. Mulligan, yeoman, second class, attached to the battleship Kansas of the Atlantic fleet, for his prompt action in going to the rescue of two members of the crew of the U. S. S. Kansas who had fallen overboard at the navy yard, Norfolk, Va., November 23, 1911.

It appears that both men as they fell overboard struck a mooring chain, which laid open the scalp of one man, rendering him unconscious, and the other had sufficient strength left to grasp the chain and attempt to hold up the senseless man. The commanding officer reported that Mulligan supported both men until further help arrived, and that his action undoubtedly saved them.

MAY PRECANCEL STAMPS.

Postmasters Enabled to Facilitate Business During Christmas Rush.

Postmasters at all first, second and third class post offices have been authorized by Postmaster General Hitchcock to precancel and attach stamps to packages offered for mailing during the Christmas holidays.

As the cancellation of stamps after they are placed on packages must be done by hand, the time thus consumed is very great. By the issuance of this order the business of the approaching rush season will be greatly facilitated in the post offices.

BAN'S NEW SECRETARY.

William Harridge Succeeds Robert McRoy With American League.

William Harridge of Chicago will succeed Robert McRoy as secretary of the American League, it was announced last night by President B. B. Johnson. Joe Flanner and John Sheridan had been considered candidates for this office, which became vacant when McRoy bought the Boston club with McAleer. Harridge is expected to take his new position January 1.

He and McRoy are going over the books of the league to facilitate the new secretary with his work. Both will attend the league meeting in New York.

William H. Lamont, a farmer of Berkeley county, W. Va., and a republican politician, died suddenly Wednesday at his home at Bunker Hill, aged fifty-seven years.

Imitates the "Funny Men."

Franklin P. Adams is known as one of the most entertaining humorists of the day; so we count ourselves peculiarly fortunate in having been able to secure one of his contributions called "My Next Imitation" for our next Sunday's Magazine. It is a parody on several of the most popular magazine writers and authors of the day, including Montague Glass, George Fitch and Samuel Rhyne, whose writings are burlesqued in a most taking way. You will scream with laughter when you read the Glass story. "One of the Best Politicians," which, really, is in itself every bit as good as anything that author has ever turned out.

Counterfeit $20 Bill Discovered.

A new counterfeit twenty-dollar gold certificate, a photographic production, has been discovered by secret service officials. The work, the officials say, is evidently that of an amateur and should be easily detected. The number of the counterfeit is B11923116.

Our Climate an Asset.

From Popular Mechanics.
On no other continent, under no other sun, in no other zone, in all this world, can be found the same extent of fertile, available agricultural land, as in these United States. And in no other equal latitude to the Pacific, and between the great lakes and the gulf, can be duplicated the same amount of normally good weather, as nature has bestowed on this favored land. Our rain and sunshine are so proportioned the one to the other as to produce the best yearly conditions on earth.
